History Defender - Derby Buildings of Faith

In 1967, one of Derby's oldest sites was changed forever to make way for a new road around the city. Thousands protested to save a historic church within the site, however, they were unsuccessful and an important part of Derby's history was wiped away.

The church was St Alkmund's. It was built in 1846, but churches dedicated to the saint had been constructed on the site since the 9th century - during the Viking and Saxon era.

Items such as a stone sarcophagus - possibly belonging to Alkmund, and a stone cross were recovered from the site and they now sit within a museum in the city.

The rise of the churches within Derby from the 9th century to modern day, has played a key part in its growth. Although these buildings may not be as popular as they once were, they still offer important glimpses into our past.

Who are Teacher's Pet?

Teacher's Pet have been providing downloadable and playable educational content to early years and primary school teachers for over 14 years. We cover all areas of the curriculum and use a team of in-house teachers and designers to create engaging and memorable concepts, that the children will love.

Why local history?

At Teacher's Pet we want to empower primary school teachers by giving them the tools they need to deliver inspiring and thoughtful lessons about the local area and its history. We believe local history teaching has such an important part to play in a child's wellbeing – helping to give children a sense of pride in where they live.

Our Local History project is designed to provide teachers across the UK with everything they need to successfully carry out a full scheme of teaching about their local area, through key enquiry questions and source led activities.

Working with Historic England gives us access to archived maps and photos for resources and information from knowledgeable local historians, as well helping us to provide the content to you free of charge.
